Jennifer Jamison has been named the Girls' Water Polo Program Head at Harvard-Westlake School.

Jamison comes to Harvard-Westlake from Brown University, where she was the men's and women's water polo assistant coach. In addition to coaching for the Brown Bears, she was responsible for scouting and video analysis of opponents, and recruiting.

Prior to her time coaching in the Ivy League, Jamison was an assistant coach at the NCAA Division III level at Pomona-Pitzer. During Jamison's tenure with the Sagehens, they made appearances in the 2018 Men's SCIAC championship & the 2019 Women's SCIAC championship.

Jamison has worked locally at the high school and club level, as an assistant coach with Oaks Christian High School, and as the Youth Program Director and coach at the Pride Water Polo Academy in Thousand Oaks.

Jamison completed a master's degree in education at National University and has a bachelor's degree in psychology from Cal State University, Northridge.

"We are excited to welcome Jenny to the Harvard-Westlake community." Said Terry Barnum, Head of Athletics. "She is a bright young coach and I'm looking forward to watching our program grow under her leadership."

"I am thrilled to join the Harvard-Westlake family as the Girls' Water Polo Program Head," said Jamison. "My experience at the collegiate, high school, and club levels has prepared me for this incredible leadership opportunity, and I can't wait to start working with the girls to continue their tradition of success and elevate the already high expectations for the Wolverines water polo program."
