Harvard-Westlake names Garrett Yamasaki as its new Boys Volleyball Program Head.

Yamasaki returns to Harvard-Westlake as the Boys Volleyball Program Head after previously working with the Wolverines as an assistant coach between 2009-13.

“We are excited to name Garrett Yamasaki as our Boys’ Volleyball Program Head,” said Terry Barnum, Head of Athletics. “His passion for the game, professionalism and deep understanding of Harvard-Westlake make him the perfect person to lead our program.”

Yamasaki has a strong coaching pedigree and brings maturity, experience and enthusiasm to the athletic department. In addition to coaching for Harvard-Westlake, he has worked as an assistant coach with the Cal State University Northridge men’s beach volleyball program, at Occidental College with the women’s indoor program, and as the men’s club volleyball coach at Loyola Marymount University.

“I am honored to return to Harvard-Westlake as the Boys Volleyball Program Head,” said Yamasaki. “Walking back on campus was exciting and I felt like I had returned home. My experience at the college level has prepared me to lead my own program and I look forward to working with the boys and the coaches to contribute to the school’s long tradition of academic and athletic excellence.”

Yamasaki graduated from Cal State University Northridge with a bachelor’s degree in psychology. He will begin his preparations for the boys’ 2022-23 season in the fall.
